Class Of '78

The Class of '78 was the first class to have gone all the way through Junior and Senior High School in the new building.

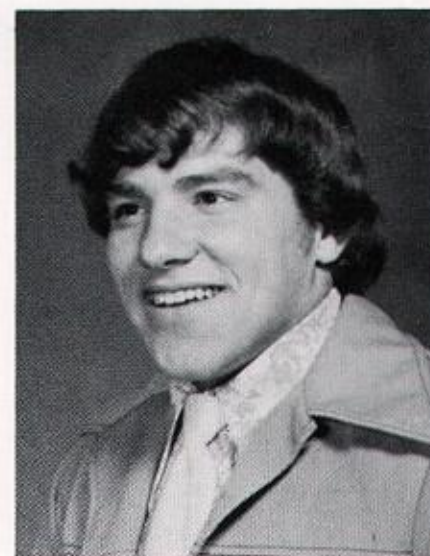

Even before the 1977-78 school year began, work had started on the first activity of their busy senior year, "Family Night On The Town." Other money-raising projects-bake sales, the only after game dance of the year, and a spring raffle organized by Becky Timmen-helped make the seniors the wealthiest class in recent years.

In May, forty-eight seniors went on the class trip to Seattle. They roller-skated, went out to dinner, saw a laser light show, and took in a movie before coming home very late in the morning.

Paster Walker spoke at Baccalaureate. Brenda Webber, Jim Janus, and Jay Lawrence also took part in the service.

For graduation, the gowns were blue and gold.
